Let's Start!

Fiona meets a friend. Where is her friend from?

Learning Outcome

Exchange basic personal information.

Ask your partner:

- Do you have family in another country?
- Where do they live?
- Find the countries on a map.

Can Do Statements

- I can say where I live and ask where others live.
- I can talk about countries, nationalities and languages.
- I can talk about things that I love.

Let's Explore!

Where are Fiona and Joe from? Do they speak Japanese? Let's find out!

* "Japanese" is the nationality and the name of the language of Japan.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

- Fiona: Oh, I love sushi!
Joe: Sushi is my favorite food from Japan.
Fiona: Mine, too. Where are you from?
Joe: The United States. My parents are American. They are from New York.
Fiona: I'm from Brazil. My mother is Brazilian. My father is from Medellín.
Joe: Ah! He is Colombian! Do you speak Spanish?
Fiona: Yes, of course. And you?
Joe: I speak English and Japanese. I'm a translator.
Fiona: Really? That's fantastic! You understand the sushi menu!
Joe: Yes, but I don't understand all of it.

Learning Points

Countries and Nationalities

When you describe a person's nationality, you use the country and an ending to form the nationality.

The type of ending can be different. There are 4 endings that can be used: -an, -ian, -ish, -ese.

Read the examples in the chart:

Country	Nationality
The United States of America	American
Canada	Canadian
Spain	Spanish
China	Chinese
