Let's Start!

Pronunciation Spot: I'm from France. Where are you from?

Learning Outcome

Accurately use basic information in simple situations.

Ask your partner:

- Where are you from?
- Where is your partner from?
- List other countries that you know.

Can Do Statements

- I can say and use the letters F, G, H, I, J.
- I can say words related to nationalities.
- I can identify key information in a short audio.

Let's Explore!

Joe is a translator. What do you do?

* You can use this question to ask: What is your job or profession?

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

Joe: Your girlfriend is Chinese, right Greg?
Greg: Yes. She has a Chinese passport.
Joe: Do you speak Mandarin?
Greg: A little bit of Mandarin.
Joe: My girlfriend speaks Greek. She has Greek parents.
Greg: Do you speak Greek?
Joe: No, I don't. I speak Japanese. I use it at work.
Greg: Really? What do you do?
Joe: I'm a translator.
Greg: Wow! I don't understand anything in Japanese.
Joe: Do you know the expression: "It's all Greek to me?"
Greg: What does it mean?
Joe: It means you don't understand anything.
Greg: Well, when you speak Japanese, it's all Greek to me.

Let's Practice!

Instructions: Complete the following steps. Fill in the Self-Assessment.

- Complete the sentences on the left side of the table.
- Ask your partner where their family is from. Complete the sentences on the right side of the table.

Self-Assessment

Yes No

I complete sentences.

☐ ☐

I use capital letters for nationalities.

My mother is _____.	His/Her mother is _____.
My father is _____.	His/Her father is _____.
My grandparents are _____.	His/Her grandparents are _____.

Target Words

- Greece (noun): a country in Europe
e.g. Her parents are from Greece.
- French (adjective): from France
e.g. I love French food.
- girlfriend (noun): a female friend or sweetheart
e.g. My girlfriend is Greek.
- hard (adjective): difficult
e.g. English is a hard language to learn.
- from (preposition): where a thing starts or the place of origin of a thing or a person
e.g. My parents are from Japan.

Learning Points

Adding an -s to nouns

A noun is a person, place or thing.

Add an -s to make the noun plural:

one apple (singular noun), two apples (plural noun)

one girlfriend (singular noun), two girlfriends (plural noun)

To make nationality plural you change the y to ie and then add an s:

one nationality (singular), two nationalities (plural noun)

The -s sounds like /z/.

Example: girlfriendz, nationalitez

Words that end in ch , x , s or need an -es for the plural:

Example:

more than one match = matches

more than one fox = foxes

more than one kiss = kisses

Nouns	Examples
Singular noun (1 noun)	Joe's girlfriend is from Canada. Her dress is fancy.
Plural nouns (2 + nouns)	Joe and Greg's girlfriends are from Canada. Their dresses are fancy.

Learning Points

Using the Letters F, G, H, I, and J.

Here are some words starting with the letters F, G, H, I, and J to practice:

Letter	Words
F, f	France, French, fire, fork, four
G, g	Greece, Greek, girlfriend, grape, game
H, h	Haiti, Haitian, hello, happy, help
I, i	Ireland, Irish, ice, island, ink
J, j	Japan, Japanese, jam, jar, jet

The words above with capital letters are the names of countries and nationalities. Countries and nationalities ALWAYS begin with a capital.

Examples:

My uncle lives in France.

He speaks French and Greek.

Other words have a capital when they are the first word in a sentence.

Examples:

We have three kinds of jam.

Jam is good on toast.

Examples:

- I speak Japanese.
- My girlfriend is Greek.
